2016 JUN 9 AM 11 50

Abbington Partners, LLC
Notes to First Amended Schedules
June 6, 2016
District of Massachusetts
Case no. 15-12351-FJB

Table of Contents

- I. General
- II. Assets
- III. Intangible Property
- IV. Creditors
- V. Individuals and Entities Not Listed as Creditors
- VI. The Iacono Dispute

I. General

1 Purpose of These Notes

- The purpose of these notes is to supplement the information contained on the schedules and statements. If there is a conflict between the schedules/statements and these notes, the information in these notes overrides any information contained in the schedules/statements.

2 First Amended Schedules

- On Friday, June 3, 2016, the schedules, statements and creditor matrix were served via email upon the U.S. Trustee's Office, the Trustee, his counsel, and all petitioning creditors save David Byer. Over the weekend, I noticed a few errors and several typos, which I have endeavored to fix in these First Amended Schedules ("FAS"). Due to the very short period of time between the original schedules and the FAS, and because I was hoping to hear from attorney Perez and Katie Collura, I have only filed with the bankruptcy court the FAS. If the Court, requests I can also file the original schedules.

3 Best Software

- For bankruptcy preparation software, I have downloaded a demo version of Best Software. The demo version prints "Demo" and "To Order Best Case Bankruptcy ..." on various pages. I cannot prevent this unless I purchase an unlocking key for $1995, which I cannot afford.
- For the creditor matrix, I have "cleaned up" the output by exporting it to Excel and then editing the contents, so the matrix does not have Demo, etc.
- For Schedule G, because the executory contracts have not changed, I have used the Schedule G from the Second Bankruptcy Case, which did not have "Demo" etc. The Second Bankruptcy Case was prepared using a different software package (published by Thomson Reuters) which no longer works on my computer and is no longer supported by Thomson Reuters.

4 As of the Petition Date

- These schedules are prepared as of the date the involuntary petition was filed.

5 Abbington's Income in 2013

- The Trustee listed Abbington's income for 2013 as $672,000. That is incorrect, the correct amount is $300,000.

6 Abbington's Income in 2014

- I have in my possession two bank statements from BB&T, showing total deposits of $23,036 and that is the amount I have listed for Abbington's income in 2014.

7 Assignment I

- On May 18, 2015, Abbington assigned to me all of its claims against Frank Iacono; South Haven Financial, LLC; Iacono Law, LLC; Powers & Merchant, PLLC; William Caven; Jonathan Rubin; Nicholas Grasso; Steven Giacalone; and Michael Salem. If I am successful in obtaining any monies from any of such individuals or entities, I agree to pay an amount of money to such creditors and equity holders equal to the amount of monies they would have received had this assignment not occurred. This is not listed under executory contracts because it is not an executory contract from Abbington's point of view.

8 Assignment II

- On May 18, 2015, Abbington assigned to me all of its claims against Bimal Raj Merchant and John Powers. If I am successful in obtaining any monies from any of such individuals or entities, I agreed to pay an amount of money to such creditors and equity holders equal to the amount of monies they would have received had this assignment not occurred. This is not listed under executory contracts because it is not an executory contract from Abbington's point of view.

9 Claims Against the Iacono Group

- On the schedules, I have value the claims against the Iacono Group at $50 million. Because of the assignments listed in Sections 7 and 8, if $50 million were obtained, most of such monies would not go to Abbington.

Rather, just the amounts necessary to make Abbington's creditors and investors whole would go to Abbington.

10 Three Cases

- First Bankruptcy Case – Boston, Case no. 13-10224. Judge Joan Feeney.
- Second Bankruptcy Case – North Carolina, Middle District, Case no. B-14-80681. Judge Lena Masori James.
- Third Bankruptcy Case – Boston, Case no. 15-12351. Judge Frank J. Bailey.
- Prior Bankruptcy Cases – The First Bankruptcy Case and the Second Bankruptcy Case, together

11 Schedules Are Incomplete and Inaccurate

These schedules are incomplete and inaccurate, for several reasons, including without limitation as to paper documents:

- While Abbington was operating, it did not have the funds to hire a bookkeeper.
- Abbington was evicted from its offices at 76 Summer Street, Boston in February 2013. The movers were hired by and paid by the landlord and thus they were unconcerned with “orderly packing.” Instead, they just threw randomw things into random boxes.
- Abbington's records were then stored in a warehouse in Boston and I believe one of the movers stole some of the items in the warehouse.
- When Abbington relocated to North Carolina, most of such paper records were stored in a warehouse. The rent for such warehouse has not been paid for more than 1.5 years and thus I do not have access to such records.

As for Abbington's electronic records, such records have been transferred several times to various servers.

II. Assets

12 Books

- At various times Abbington has purchased books, in almost all cases computer technical reference books. In previous cases Abbington has listed such books on its schedules.
- As new versions of software are purchased, in some cases I have purchased updated books. For example, when Abbington was using Word 2010, Abbington had a book on Word 2010. As software is update, in some case new books are purchased and the old version was discarded.
- Having looked at the library, I do not see any books currently in the library that were purchased by Abbington.

III. Intangible Property

Abbington's intangible property includes without limitation the following:

- i. Prospect lists -- Abbington has developed a complete prospect list of every municipal issuer of ARS bonds;
- ii. Macros to download official statements -- The municipal issuers of ARS bonds issue "Official Statements," which are similar to prospectuses. Abbington has developed computer macros to automate the downloading of approximately 5,000 official statements;
- iii. Database of SIFMA rates -- Abbington maintains a unique database of SIFMA interest rates. SIFMA is a standardized index of rates paid by certain municipalities;
- iv. Database of ARS vs. VRDO spreads -- VRDOs are variable rate demand obligations. Abbington maintains a unique database comparing spreads between ARS bonds and VRDOs;
- v. Library of damage estimates -- Abbington maintains a unique comprehensive library of damage estimates for various issuers;
- vi. Library of broker-dealer presentations -- Abbington maintains a unique library of various presentations made by broker-dealers to institutional issuers;
- vii. Auction Rate Security Customer Relationship Management ("ARS CRM") database -- Using Microsoft SQL server, Abbington has developed a unique sophisticated and complex database of ARS data, comprising more than 50 tables and tens of millions of data elements;
- viii. ARS CRM Application -- This is a unique front-end interface to the ARS CRM Database, built in Microsoft Access. It consists of hundreds of forms, queries, reports and Microsoft Visual Basic for Application ("VBA") modules which allow the user to input and edit data, to view and analyze data in numerous ways, and to generate different types of reports. More than six software developers have worked on the ARS CRM Application since Abbington commenced its development in May, 2011;

- ix. ARS CRM entity relationship diagrams -- These are unique diagrams that describe the relationships between parent and child tables in the ARS CRM database;
- x. ARS CRM system specifications -- These are unique detailed technical specifications for the ARS CRM database and applications;
- xi. ARS CRM instructions -- This is a confidential user's manual for the ARS CRM application;
- xii. Financial Fraud Prosecution System ("FFPS") database -- This is a unique database with an even more sophisticated architecture and infrastructure which enables Abbington to further analyze ARSs. The FFPS database is based on Microsoft SQL Server and consists of approximately 120 tables and tens of millions of data elements;
- xiii. FFPS application -- Like the ARS CRM application, the FFPS application is a unique front end to the FFPS database that is written in Microsoft Access. The FFPS application also consists of hundreds of forms, queries, views and reports;
- xiv. FFPS technical specifications -- These are detailed confidential technical specifications for the FFPS database and application;
- xv. FFPS user's manual -- This is the confidential user's manual for the FFPS application;
- xvi. Bloomberg macros -- Abbington has developed unique macros and other tools to download and analyze data relevant to ARS claims from Bloomberg;
- xvii. Damage Template -- The first generation of Abbington's generic model to access economic losses is called the "Damage Template." It is a unique sophisticated Microsoft Excel model, 145 iterations of the Damage Template were developed;
- xviii. Economic Loss Assessment ("ELA") -- After 145 versions of the Damage Template were developed, Abbington developed a newer, more advanced model, which is the ELA. The ELA is currently in its 12th revision;
- xix. Bond Diagrams -- Abbington has developed unique bond diagrams that graphically explain the ARS issuances and losses;

- xx. Computation of Damages -- The computations to determine the economic losses suffered by the issuers are extremely complex. Abbington has confidential memoranda which describe in great detail the theoretical underpinnings of such calculations;
- xxi. Form document requests to the issuer -- Abbington maintains unique form requests for documents, which are given to the issuer, preparing the issuer for the discovery requests it will receive from the broker-dealer once arbitration is commenced;
- xxii. Library of Pending Litigation -- Abbington maintains a unique library of pending lawsuits filed by broker-dealers, seeking to join arbitrations; and
- xxiii. PowerPoint Presentations -- Abbington has developed unique PowerPoint presentations for issuers.

IV. Creditors

13 David J. Byer

- David J. Byer “worked” for Abbington for a few days. He claimed to be an experienced Microsoft Access software developer. Such statement was not true. In fact, he had the audacity to bill Abbington for some introductory Access books he apparently felt he needed to read. During the few days he spent at Abbington’s offices, he accomplished nothing.
- When he started, he agreed to work “on the come” – i.e., a deferred basis. A few days later, a contract with such terms was presented to him. He apparently had changed his mind and he did not sign such contract. A few hours later, he quit.
- He subsequently filed suit against Abbington in New Hampshire, obtaining a judgment for approximately $3,300. Abbington feels that it is inconceivable that New Hampshire has any personal jurisdiction over New Hampshire, since all of Abbington’s interactions with Byer were in Massachusetts and Abbington has never had any operations in New Hampshire. For that reason, Abbington has valued Mr. Byer’s claim as zero.
- Abbington has a claim against Byer for filing a perjurious involuntary petition; such claim did not exist when the North Carolina bankruptcy schedules were filed.

14 Trevor Clement

- Before I and Abbington engaged attorneys Robert Cohan and Jonathan Plaut in connection with the Iacono dispute, I engaged Trevor Clement personally. Mr. Clement did some work on the Iacono dispute. However, the engagement agreement I signed with him did not obligate Abbington to pay Mr. Clement, it only obligated me to pay him. In other words, Abbington was not a party to such agreement. Therefore, I have valued Mr. Clement’s claim as $0.

15 Chardon LawCohan, Rasnick, Myerson & Plaut

- These two firms signed a Contingent Fee Agreement (“CEA”) to represent Abbington and myself in the Iacono dispute. Because only certain monies were obtained (for which they were paid $100,000) and because they did not abide by the terms of the CEA, it is Abbington’s position they are not owed any monies and that Abbington has claims against them.

16 Katie Collora

- I have asked Katie Collora to provide me with her address, which she has not done so. Once she does, I will list her correct address on amended schedules. In the meantime, I have listed my address as a “placeholder.”

17 John DerBoghossian

- The Suffolk Superior Court ordered an attachment for $49,000 in favor of Mr. DerBoghossian, based on a “1X” theory of damages. In the state court action, Mr. DerBoghossian is claiming “3X” in damages plus attorneys’ fees, based on his contention that he was an employee of Abbington, rather than an independent contractor. I have listed his claim at the “1X” number.
- Abbington has claims against Mr. DerBoghossian for, among other things, breach of contract.

18 The Estate of Brad Lange

- Brad Lang provided software development services to Abbington. Subsequently, he died. His widow is Lara Wysong and I assume she is executrix of his estate. I have left three telephone messages for Ms. Wysong, which she has not returned.
- Assuming she does call me, I will ask her to provide me with her address, which I will list on amended schedules. In the meantime, I have listed my address as a “placeholder.”

19 Dale Malone

- Dale Malone signed a Contingent Fee Agreement (“CEA”) to represent Abbington in the Iacono dispute. Because he did not abide by the terms of the CEA, it is Abbington’s position he is not owed any monies and that Abbington has claims against him.
- In addition, Dale Malone worked for Abbington out of Abbington’s offices, and for that work, he claims he is owed $41,643.84.

20 James Mitchell

- James Mitchell quarterbacked a team which generated 18 signed Client Engagement Agreements from ARS issuer clients, more than every other group in the country combined. He thought of the idea, raised money, hire and trained the team, managed the team, and closed most of the clients, as well as finding the two receiving law firms to handle such cases. In addition, he has spent several thousand firms working on behalf of Abbington to attempt to obtain the monies that Frank Iacono and others have stolen.
- During much of such time, Mitchell was wildly underpaid and during much of such time, Mitchell received no compensation at all.

21 Perez, Zoppo and Associates

- Attorney Isaac Peres performed legal services for Abbington. Mr. Peres told me that his normal billing rate is $300 per hour. We agreed he would notify me of how many hours he spent representing Abbington. As of the time I served these schedules on the Trustee, he had not done so.
- Accordingly, I have estimated 100 hours were spent by Mr. Peres, and thus have valued Mr. Peres' claim at $30,000. It is possible that 100 hours is very much an incorrect number, I simply do not know, to a large extent I am "pulling the number out of the air." I am reasonably certain I will hear from Mr. Peres and he will give me the correct number, and I will file such number in amended schedules.

22 Jessica Self

- I have asked Jessica Self to provide me with her address, which she has not done so. Once she does, I will list her correct address on amended schedules. In the meantime, I have listed my address as a "placeholder."

V. Individuals and Entities

Not Listed as Creditors

23 Obu Adekore

- Obu Adekore performed software development services for Abbington. I have spent about 30 minutes to find him and I am unable to do so, and I am reasonably certain I will not be able to ever find him.

24 Karen Mitchell

- It is Karen Mitchell's position that she is not a creditor of Abbington.

25 Roshan Modi / Sharmili Das

- Ms. Das owns a condominium in Cambridge, which she leases to Roshan Modi. Mr. Modi subleased such condo to me, and a dispute arose. Abbington was not a party to the lease. Despite that, Modi was successful in obtaining from the Cambridge District Court an attachment over Robert Cohan's IOLTA account (such account held the $49,000 that John DerBoghosian had attached). Because of that, Mr. Modi and Ms. Das were listed as notice creditors in previous Abbington bankruptcy cases. Subsequently, Santander Bank was successful in convincing the Cambridge District Court in dissolving Mr. Modi's attachment, and thus I am now longer listing Mr. Modi or Ms. Das as notice creditors.

VI. The Iacono Dispute

26 Amounts Listed on the Involuntary Petition

On the involuntary petition, the following amounts were listed as monies owed by the Debtor by the following purported creditors:

- Powers & Merchant, PLLC ("P&M") -- $321,542
- South Haven Financial, LLC -- $99,832
- Frank Iacono -- $247,714

27 Arbitration Award / Suffolk Superior Court

An award was entered against Abbington in the JAMS arbitration, and such award was then confirmed by the Suffolk Superior Court. Abbington believes that the odds are exceptionally high that the Massachusetts Appeals Court will reserve the decision of the Suffolk Superior Court. A few of such reasons include:

- Bimal Raj Merchant and Jonathan Powers signed clear agreement that James Mitchell would control P&M. Only the American Arbitration Association in Los Angeles has the authority to rule on such contracts. Thus, any action by P&M against Abbington was void as a matter of law.
- The arbitrator awarded attorneys' fees supposedly incurred by Iacono for not on matters relating to Iacono, but to third parties.
- The arbitrator "doubled dipped" in awarding damages to Iacono in Iacono's purchase of equity in P&M. Iacono cannot be awarded damages while being able to keep his equity in P&M.

Abbington believes that once the Massachusetts Appeals Court reverses and then remands to the state court, Abbington will be able to try such dispute before a jury, and jury will award substantial damages against the individuals and entities listed in this Chapter VI.

28 Workers

The following individuals all claim they were not workers for Abbington Partners, but rather worked for Powers & Merchant, PLLC, and thus are estopped from arguing they are owed monies by Abbington for services. (Their statement is completely untrue, but that is the claim they are making, based primarily on Iacono coaching them lie.)

- William Caven
- Nicholas Grasso
- Jonathan Rubin
- Steven Giacalone
- Michael Salem
- Thomas Poaps

29 Jonathan Rubin

- Mr. Rubin filed a counterclaim against Abbington (and purportedly against James Mitchell) in the Suffolk Superior Court action. Subsequently, his attorney, Andrea Martin, stated that Mr. Rubin would not be pursuing such claim.

30 Michael Salem

- Mr. Salem filed a counterclaim against Abbington (and purportedly against James Mitchell) in the Suffolk Superior Court action. Subsequently, his attorney, Andrea Martin, stated that Mr. Salem would not be pursuing such claim.
